DANWAY, the proud engineering arm of Al-Nowais Investments, was founded in 1976. Since then, DANWAY has outgrown its modest beginnings to become a multi-divisional corporation representing more than one hundred world-renowned leaders in the fields of electro-mechanical and instrumentation equipment supply and service – all constituting notable areas of excellence adorning its crown. Danway's operations in the United Arab Emirates started in 1976. Danway made its market entry in the field of Generator hire and service, representing Dawson Keith - U.K., a leader in the manufacture of diesel generators. In 1982, the merger of Dawson Keith and Associated British Engineering Group (ABE), a public limited company in the United Kingdom, resulted in the key tie-up between Danway and ABE. Danway became a subsidiary of ABE, which played a major factor in accelerating the growth of the company.
