Spanning across 500 hectares amidst a sand dune landscape 40 km from Dubai, Al Rawdah farms imports the hatching eggs exclusively from Europe's top breeders. Hatched on the farm, the birds are kept on a diet of 100 per cent natural feed specially formulated for Al Rawdah. It is this wholesome wheat and maize diet and the scientific management of the livestock inside air-conditioned sheds that ensures the finest quality succulent chicken. Slaughtered at the age of 29 according to the Halal practice, Al Rawdah chicken passes through an ultra modern and hygienic production process. This process, adopted from the best practices in the industry is also regularly monitored by Dubai and other Municipality food control inspectors.
