Phoenix Contact established its subsidiary office in the Middle East effectively by the beginning of year 2009. To accommodate its continuing expansion from a Regional branch to a subsidiary, the office was strategically moved from the busy business district of Dubai, United Arab Emirates to EnPark (Energy and Environment Park) in DIAC (Dubai International Academic City). To accommodate the growing demand due to the continued penetration in the region, the subsidiary had experienced a rapid expansion in personnel and it has been continuing to do so as planned. Our reliable presence in the region brings Phoenix Contact products and local customer support in closer proximity to customers. Utilizing a network of Partners and Distributors in various countries in the Middle East, this facility provides value added and innovative system specific requirements for a broad-based growing market, especially the Oil and Gas sector. By providing the highest level of customer service in our industry, we maintain our position as a leading, innovative, global player. We are constantly in touch with our customers in an effort to provide them with the best solutions for their application requirements.
