Wings Business is more than a travel agency. We are a business partner, a friend, a community resource. Our success comes from the success of our customers, their businesses, and the local economy. Integrating ourselves into these key areas, we help ourselves by helping others first. We can save businesses time and money through our worldwide affiliations and partnerships by offering a wide range of services for the corporate traveler. Our corporate account managers can implement and monitor your travel policies, as well as keep your business informed on travel industry issues through regular communication and meetings. We don't want to sell you a business travel package; we want to understand your needs, so we can custom design a travel solution that meets your company specific requirements. We look at your opportunities and challenges and design a solution customized to fit you and your business.
